The project, The Man Who Killed Don Quixote is probably the most unfortunate film that Terry Gilliam wanted to shoot. He tried to do with Johnny Depp , 2000 and for various reasons, not out. Now the director has the opportunity to return to this film, but the question is whether with Johnny Depp on board?

I can honestly say that it does not work with Johnnywith Don Quixote. He has already reserved a number of other projects. He says that it is not achievable, and they both agreed to that I will soon die, so it was nice to finish the project earlier Just who would replace Johnny Depp? Any ideas?
